1. OP 5E58 HQ			OMB has proposed these interim regulations relating to the garnishment of the wages of Federal employees as authorized by the Social Security Act. The General Counsel of OMB believes these regulations do no more than "lead a plaintiff to the Agency's door" by explaining to counsel how to proceed. The regulations will likely be modified, but not substantially, if the Justice Department's draft legislation is enacted. This legislation, which will be sent to the Hill next week, will give more guidance on how to implement the Act than does the present cryptic language. OMB's General Counsel believes the only way to fully protect the identity of CIA employees under cover would be to get an exemption from the Act itself--an impossibility in today's political climate. Lacking that, our only option is to insist that our employees do not permit this problem to arise. Attached is a copy of the proposed interim regulations for your information. Assistant Legislative Counsel
